▼ PERSPECTIVE

Throughout history, humanity has benefited from herbal liniments, balms, unguents, lotions, emollients, dressings, salves, ointments, jells, applications, chrisms, creams, and embrocations. Inevitably, such proven preparations assisted the body’s normal repair processes and provided relief to the body’s travails.

▼ LIFESTYLE

#260 WO (China Healing Oil)

WO is an essential oil combination “medicine chest” in a bottle—and thus plays a multi purpose “helpful for just about everything” role for people who prefer natural solutions for life’s minor travails at home and during travel. People call it “Wonder Oil” as well as “Worm Oil” for its inherent properties. A potent “Yang” energy formula, WO supports normal circulation and repair processes.

▼ INDICATIONS

▼ KEY COMPONENTS

- Wormseed Oil – From the chelidonium genus, can permeate the tissues to help support a normal external (topical) terrain; as well as internally to support a normal, balanced gastrointestinal terrain. Contains a compound, ascaridole, that supports normal mycobiome and microbiome relationships.
- Wintergreen Oil – With the predominance of methyl salicylate, wintergreen oil supports normal muscle operations (relaxation/contraction); and healthful circulatory activities. Supportive of normal respiratory, digestive, and nervous system activities.
- Basil Oil – A popular essential oil cited to support the body’s normal digestive regulatory processes including the production of flatus. In herbal traditions, it helps the normal skin repair processes.
- Spearmint Oil – A favorite essential oil that can support normal digestive processes and dispel gas. Considered relaxing to the spirit, a soother, and supportive of normal immune system activity.

▼ CONTRAINDICATIONS

Will cause a burning sensation if applied to mucous membranes, and severe pain if it contacts the eyes or delicate genital areas. Essential oils can “melt” plastic. Do not apply directly to teeth (okay for gums).

▼ CLINICIAN CONSENSUS

- Sinus Congestion Relief:
#260 WO - China Healing Oil. Add a few drops to hot water and sniff the vapors.

▼ BACKGROUND

Doc Wheelwright discovered this healing oil during his travels through China. He brought the concept back to his lab and created WO. This early formula was hugely successful as it became a “don’t leave home without it” balm for a wide variety of minor situations. A favorite among backpackers and athletes.
