▼ PERSPECTIVE

For thousands of years, foods and plants were used to support the body's normal joint health processes and function. Ancient Egyptian records show the incidence of calcium deposits in the joints increasing with their shift to an agrarian, grain-based society; as well as the employment of herbs to help.

#402 ARTA (JointEZ)

Provides natural botanical and biochemical support for healthy joint movement and comfort, and daily physical activities. Helps with improved circulation and assists the body in its normal vigilance regarding microorganisms that can cause calcification-encapsulations in the joint capsule. Applies Native American traditional-medicinal botanicals with a robust joint terrain presence to focus on overall, normal joint functional activities.

▼ INDICATIONS

- Support normal joint maintenance and activity functions
- Support normal calcium metabolic activities for normal joint function

▼ KEY COMPONENTS

- Riboflavin – Plays an important role in energy production, and oxidation processes to create ATP energy.
- Niacin – A B-vitamin that supports circulation to the deep blood vessels like those surrounding the joints. Supports the blood to deliver nutrients to joints and remote areas that often have sluggish circulation.
- Vitamin B₆ – Numerous studies point to B₆ as being a joint-supportive nutrient. Supports normal joint immune activities, especially interleukin 6 and tumor necrosis factor TNF-alpha.
- Zinc – A trace mineral essential to the cells' manufacture and utilization of the antioxidant enzyme: superoxide dismutase necessary for normal joint health.
- Chapeu de Couro – Contains flavonoids such as Rutin that supports normal joint health processes. The Brazilian herbal tradition cites that it is supportive of normal joint maintenance activities.
- Spearmint – Provides phenolic and flavonoid compounds, exhibits excellent antioxidant activity.
- Burdock Seed – A traditional joint-health supportive herb with purification properties.
- Yucca – A traditional Native American herb with modern research studies demonstrating it contains steroidal saponins and microbiome relation modulators.
- Leptotaenia Oil – A Native American herb, the Black Wild Carrot, traditionally used for its ability to help with normal immune processes.
- Pomegranate – Studies demonstrate that this fruit supports normal blood oxygen activity and supports overall antioxidant processes.
- Chaparral – A Native American herb with a long history of supporting normal blood and body purification processes.

▼ BACKGROUND

Doc Wheelwright observed the results that Native American eclectic healer, Dr. Sundance, obtained with herbs based on the Native American herbal tradition. People came to see Dr. Sundance from all over the world. Doc applied his knowledge and research to the task of supporting normal healthy joints via a groundbreaking new concept – that joint health was not solely a biochemical “calcium” process, but that it was necessary to have an effective immune system regarding microbes. Thirty years after Doc's hypothesis, The Lancet published on the efficacy of the Rx Fluconazole (Diflucan) to help the osteo form of arthritis by killing protozoal species.
